L'Antiga Esquerra de l'Eixample / Barcelona

Located at 234 Mallorca Street, next to the stately Rambla Catalunya, stands a characteristic building in Barcelona's Eixample neighborhood, built at the beginning of the 20th century. Of this large house, with a façade of more than 38 meters, the heritage elements (façades, interior patios and lobby) that give it its personality are maintained. Everything else will be new construction. A part of the building will be used for housing. The 22 homes, with 2, 3 and 4 bedrooms, will have a design appropriate to current needs, with natural light in all spacious and balanced spaces. Also contemplated in the project are duplex ground floors with large private gardens and penthouses, also duplexes with large terraces.

Timeless design: Neutral colors. Noble materials. Light wood. White walls and carpentry.

With the best quality.

Natural lamp: Large windows that occupy the maximum possible surface of the façade. Sliding doors that project from the floor to the ceiling, like small walls that disappear so that light can penetrate to the very heart of the home.

Spaciousness and balance: Regardless of the surface area, the home is spacious. The day and night areas are rigorously studied.

Facilities: sanitary water, aerothermal heating and air conditioning provide maximum comfort with high energy savings.

The project will be completed by the end of 2024.
