Ordino Pueblo / Ordino

La Querola de Ordino is one of Europe's most distinctive residential developments, composed of seven slate monoliths designed by Jean Nouvel — Pritzker Prize laureate, architecture's equivalent of the Nobel Prize — emerging from the mountainside as if they had always belonged there.

51 unique residences, with living areas starting from 250 m², individually designed according to orientation, location, and views. No two homes are alike.

All residences feature a master suite, additional en-suite bedrooms, an open-plan kitchen and living room, a family room, a terrace and/or private gardens with barbecue, private garage, and a private lift within the residence.

The interiors combine solid oak, exclusive kitchens designed by Jean Nouvel, Gessi Milano fittings, and Lutron home automation with full smartphone control. Energy Rating A is achieved through a geothermal system comprising 170 boreholes.

Amenities include an outdoor swimming pool, indoor pool, hammam, sauna, fitness and yoga room, and two fully equipped lounges.

Located in Ordino, Andorra's most exclusive parish and a UNESCO Biosphere Reserve.

Awarded Best Residential Architecture and Best Residential Development at the International Property Awards 2023–2024.
